Lars Vinx

will make a presentation about

The Critique of Kelsen's Monism in Analytical Legal Theory

Kelsen's legal monism – the claim that it is impossible for legal science to recognize the existence of more than one legal system – is often held to be one of the least plausible aspects of Kelsen's Pure Theory of Law. This presentation will challenge the criticism of Kelsen's monism in the work of H.L.A. Hart and Joseph Raz.

It will defend the claim that Hart's and Raz's arguments against Kelsen's monism are all unsound. Hence, Kelsen's monist position is still on the jurisprudential table and potentially able to provide an interesting counterpoint to the prevalent legal pluralist orthodoxy in the theory of legal system.

Lars Vinx (University of Bilkent, Turkey) is trained as a philosopher and has written on a number of topics within legal and political philosophy. At present, he is mainly working on the legal and constitutional theory of Hans Kelsen and Carl Schmitt.
